

Toyota iQ

Named topgear.com's Small Car of the Year 2008, the Toyota iQ is compact yet can comfortably seat four people. Practical and agile, it also incorporates the advanced technology that our customers have come to expect.

The new Toyota iQ has been designed to be ideal for urban drivers. Its small size and innovative design enables parking in the smallest of spaces, while navigating tight traffic is easy. The CO<sub>2</sub> emissions produced by the vehicle are as low as 99g/km, making the iQ an excellent choice when looking to avoid road tax charges plus it has a BIK of only 10%.

The iQ also has many of the virtues usually associated with larger vehicles. Safety measures include nine airbags, Vehicle Stability Control, traction control, anti-lock brakes and electronic brakeforce distribution.

Toyota designers have put a great deal of thought into ensuring that the interior of the vehicle is as spacious as can be. Compact components, ultra-slim seats and a flat fuel tank mean that the iQ manages to be roomy without losing the agility and flexibility for which it was designed.
